Upcoming Jaimie Engle Workshop
This month, Jaimie Engle will discuss how to build tension in a story, even when the plot isn’t moving forward. All those interested in writing fiction are welcome to come hear her tips!

Join us!
Tuesday, April 25th at 11:00 a.m.
Tuesday, April 25th at 6:30 p.m.
Wednesday, April 26th at 11:00 a.m.
The workshop attendees all agreed: Morgan Evans helped them make progress in their understanding of MLA and APA formatting.

All in all, students from multiple degree programs attended the hour-long session. A Biomedical Science student, Kim Kennedy, described the presentation as “very helpful.” Kristin McPeak, who is part of the same program, was also happy to report that “Morgan was able to . . . answer individual questions pertaining to [her] thesis.” Maria Rosenfeld attended at the recommendation of her English professor, but she is part of the Accounting degree program. In short, the session appealed to students from a range of disciplines.

On the whole, students reported that attending the workshop will make them more likely to use the Writing Center, so we’re sending out a big public “Thank you!” to Morgan Evans for her efforts!

Last Month’s Core Scholar Workshop Was a Success!

Meet Nicholas Wimmers

Nicholas L. Wimmers graduated from the University of Central Florida in 1996 with a BA in Journalism (Public Relations & Advertising). He then went on to continue his education at Nova Southeastern University, where he earned his MS in TESOL (Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages). Nicholas has taught English to non-native speakers in Honduras and Mexico. In 2006, Nicholas began working at Eastern Florida State College (formerly known as Brevard Community College) as a Learning Lab Specialist (Reading & Writing) at the Melbourne campus. In 2016, Nicholas was transferred to the Melbourne Writing Center and has been there ever since. Nicholas lived in Venezuela and Aruba as a child and has traveled extensively throughout Europe, Central/South America, North America, Asia, the Caribbean, and the South Pacific. Nicholas enjoys traveling, fine dining, meditation, walking, and reading. Nicholas is very patient with his students and likes when they provide him with positive feedback.
