MISSION: The Melbourne Writing Center of Eastern Florida State College provides one-on-one consultations and small-group workshops to advise and assist the EFSC community of writers within any discipline and throughout any stage of the writing process by way of a supportive, comfortable environment to create independent writers with strong essential skills.
Happy Halloween!

We hope everyone had a happy Halloween!
Starting January 2018, I embark on a new journey as Associate Provost of Titusville and eLearning. I will finish out the Fall 2017 semester in Melbourne before traveling my new path. As I hand off responsibilities to Tony Akers, I look back at my time in the Melbourne Writing Center. I officially became the Coordinator for the Fall 2012 semester. Wow – how time has flown and how much has changed! When I started, we were in a classroom in building 1. Now we are in a beautiful facility in the mix of other student services in building 2. The staff was growing from one writing consultant to three – and now we have eight, joined by Core Scholar Peer Tutors, as well as a student worker and plentiful service-learning volunteers to help us manage our day-to-day operational elements – all of whom are still readily available to continue assisting students, staff, and faculty with writing projects. I have learned a great deal during this journey. More importantly, though, I have formed friendships that I hope to maintain. I am optimistic about the road ahead, and I am nostalgic about the road behind, never to be forgotten. Thank you for touching my life, encouraging my progress, and allowing the Melbourne Writing Center to thrive.

Sharon

Under Sharon’s leadership, our spirit of camaraderie has strengthened. The Writing Center team will sorely miss her, as we could not have asked for a more supportive and caring role model. Although we’re sorry to see her leave us, we’re also happy for her, and we wish her well as she begins her new endeavor! Keep looking for our newsletters to stay updated on our transition!
